

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Unusual interest centered Tuesday in the annual All Saints' day service at Old Trinity church, Church street, Brooklyn, for in connection with it the 150th anniversary of the founding of this, the oldest Episcopal church standing in Connecticut, was observed. Members of Trinity parish, many of whom are descendants of the founders, came to attend the service from Brooklyn village; many more came from Danvers and others came from various points in Connecticut and from sections outside the state. Rt. Rev. Chauncey Bruce Brewster preached the sermon. He was assisted at the service and the unveiling of a bronze memorial tablet bearing the names of the families that founded the parish by Rev. Albert Jepson, rector of St. Alban's church, Danvers, and Rev. George L. Browne, of Washington, Conn. The choir of St. Alban's church sang at the service, which was deeply impressive throughout.

Emily Sophie Browne, in the name of those who had provided the tablet, presented it to the rector, warden and vestrymen and it was accepted for the church by Rev. Albert Jepson, by whose side stood Judge Oscar F. Atwood of Brooklyn. The tablet was unveiled by Miss Mary Putnam, a descendant of Rev. Daniel Fogg, A. M., a Harvard graduate and first rector—1772-1815.

Old Trinity church is rich in historical traditions. It was built by Colonel Godfrey Malbone here in this manner of "Kingwood" in 1774 and modeled after Trinity church, Newport, where Colonel Malbone's father was rector, and King's chapel, Boston. Colonel Malbone was one of the largest property holders in what was then known as the Modake district of the town of Danvers, from which the town of Brooklyn subsequently was set off. In those early days in the history of this part of Connecticut, property holders were not so anxious to have their names in the church records as they are now.

It is related that when it was announced that a Congregational church was to be built at Brooklyn, as now known, Colonel Malbone, taking stock of the fact that approximately half the cost of the proposed structure would be assessed against him, determined that he should build a church for those who preferred the Church of England, and set about to secure permission to do so from the legislature. An effort to which he eventually was successful in the face of strong opposition and ultimately the church was built in historical tradition came into being, and there many followers of the faith came to worship.

Only a week ago, following data obtained from parish records, Senator Charles H. Blake of Brooklyn, marked the news with the names of the original peholders, and one cannot but be impressed with what these names have since meant to the history not only of Windham county and Connecticut, but to the country as a whole as a study of them is made. Included in the list, in name but a few, one finds Adams, Allyn, Ashcroft, Atherton, Bigelow, Brinley, Brown, Cady, Camp, Chaffee, Cleveland, Collins, Coon, Darbe, Day, Dyer, Eldridge, Franklin, Fogg, Fuller, Gallup, Gove, Gurnett, Hale, Henson, Hubbard, Hutchinson, Jewett, Johnson, Lowe, Luther, Maine, Malbone, McBride, McClure, Moffitt, Palmer, Putnam, Sabin, Spalding, Staple, Walton, Webb, Wheeler, Wither, Wither, Woodward.

Descendants of these families have filled many high places in state and nation, as they continue to do today.

It is harking back through many years indeed, to contemplate that slaves owned here in Windham county sat in the balcony at the rear of the little church, which has a seating capacity of 20. One seems closely in touch with Colonial days when contemplating that General Israel Putnam of Revolutionary fame was familiar with it as a resident of the neighborhood and that children long were associated with the affairs of the parish.

The church continued in active use until a change in the center of population in Brooklyn required the erection in 1856 of a new Trinity church in Brooklyn village. Since that period services have been held there every year from time to time, always on All Saints' day and many times for funeral services of members of families long identified with the old church and for other special occasions.

Lines of Gray's Elegy in a Country Churchyard flash through one's mind in walking through the churchyard about Old Trinity. Several of Trinity's old rectors rest there. Many members of families of the founders also are at rest in the peaceful soil.

The list of the rectors of the parish is as follows: Rev. Daniel Fogg, A. M., 1772-1815; Joseph Russell, faithful lay reader who kept the church open 1815-1818; Rev. George S. White, 1818-1820; Rev. Lemuel R. Hull, 1820-1825; Rev. Asa Steele, 1825-1828; Rev. Thomas K. Peck, 1828-1832; Rev. Ezra B. Kellogg, 1832-1837; Rev. Josiah M. Bartlett, 1837-1874; Rev. Samuel Fennor Jarvis, 1874-1899; Rev. Isaac Peck, 1910-1911; Rev. Frederick Sanford, 1911-1913; Rev. Alvin P. Knoll, 1913.

Hundreds of dogs owned in the town of Killingly and Brooklyn will probably think that today (Wednesday) is some kind of a holiday in their honor, or that humanity has decided to be more decent toward them, for they are to be allowed their liberty for the first time since the early days of August. Dog Warden Charles E. Ayer of the town of Killingly and Dog Warden Harry Lathrop of the town of Brooklyn received notices Tuesday that the quarantine order under which the dogs have been kept confined is rescinded and that the animals may be allowed at liberty. The order was effective Tuesday, but this item will bring the first announcement of it to the great majority of the dog owners of the two towns. The dogs were placed in quarantine after some suspected cases of rabies attracted the attention of the bureau of domestic animals. Commissioner of Health of this department has ordered the rescinding of the order—so a dog may now be a dog again and have a peek at the world from a seat other than in the wooded dooryard.

Halfway pranks in Danielson this year were more numerous by a full crop than ever before, and this is partly attributed to the fact that an unusually large number of people chose to raise the occasion almost to the dignity of a "night before" feast. The students pulled off by the hobgoblins and other special dignitaries of the night were nothing more than wholesome fun, but there were some wholes that cannot be classed as such—for instance, the stealing of the tongue of the bell at the school street school. Boys made their way into the building during the early hours of the evening and rang the bell, a stunt about which no one found particular fault, though the practice is not to be encouraged, and then came the idea to take away the tongue, which was done, and the bell did not ring out to call the pupils to school Tuesday morning.

The demand for a higher education is reaching out with effectiveness into the folds of game birds that inhabit this territory may be added from the fact that a pump partridge was the extreme of the way through window at the high school building in order to be present at a morning session. She was there early, too, a good trait in all students, and somewhat startled Romeo Burton, a junior, for his father, Hiram Burton, as her dash into the building sent glass crashing down. After a few turns around the assembly hall the exhausted and injured came tumbling down, to be tenderly picked up and given water in an attempt to revive her and again set her at liberty. All effort to restore the bird failed, for she was so badly injured by contact with the glass that she died within a short time.

The Place Where Thy Honor Dwelleth is the title of a volume dealing with the history of Old Trinity church, Brooklyn, which is being prepared by Miss Felicia Cornelia Terry. The volume will deal in detail with the history of the church and of the needs of the parish of which it was the center. The preface for the volume is to be written by Rt. Rev. Chauncey Bruce Brewster, bishop of Connecticut.

On the 78th anniversary of their marriage, Monday, Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson of Danville were presented a basket of fruit and with it a bouquet of beautiful chrysanthemums in the name of members of St. Alban's parish, of which they are communicants. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson also received a gift of $15 in gold from their children.

Announcement was made Tuesday that Lieut. Irving Davis of the service battery located here has resigned. While no announcement has been made as to Lieut. Davis' successor, it is assumed that the new recruit will be a member of the local company—band members, are residents of New London, so it is believed one Neutonian here will be appointed to the vacant position.

The body of Miss Carrie Spencer, 64, formerly a resident in Danville and Pomfret, was received here Tuesday by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy from the Norwich state hospital, where she died.

Miss Spencer, formerly a inmate of the Middlesex institution, had been transferred to Norwich. A. H. Armstrong was in Providence on Tuesday on a business trip.

A regular drill for members of the service battery held Tuesday evening and there will be another drill Thursday evening of this week.

The heavy load ball that William H. Hallikainen was in committing suicide at his home in Danville Monday. The ball, which was fired from a .22 caliber rifle, passed through his head from one side to the other and lodged in the ceiling. It is believed that Hallikainen bent his head over one side and intended to shoot himself in the head, but the bullet struck the ceiling and fell back on his head.

Hundreds attended the All Saints' day services at St. James' church.

PUTNAM

Lieut. John H. Moss will be marshal of the America day parade in this city. It was announced Tuesday, and the route of the parade will be tentatively as follows: Forming in Union square at 3 p. m. and proceeding through Main, Front, South Main, Center, Grove, School, Providence, Marshall streets, to Woodstock avenue, Bridge, Main to the square and disband.

A movement was started here on Tuesday to create a fund to purchase bronze markers for the graves of world war men buried in Putnam cemeteries. There are approximately 20 graves of such veterans in the cemeteries of the town. The markers for the graves of the American Legion and the hope of the service men is to create a fund sufficient to purchase markers for each grave. Individuals who are not ex-service men will be permitted to contribute to this fund.

Joseph B. Earl and John McGhee, actors, and both of Freeport, L. I., were injured Tuesday morning when the Oakland touring car in which they were riding was overturned on the slipper state highway a short distance east of the children's home on the Chesapeake street, planning their escape from the car. The car was overturned on its side and the two men were thrown out. Earl was injured in the head and McGhee in the leg, allowing him to crawl out. Persons in a car that came along conveyed the injured actors to the local hospital where they were received treatment, and afterwards proceeded to Providence.

The machine that figured in the accident was not badly damaged, though the occupants were cramped up and the top and windshield broken.

Within ten minutes after the injured men had left their wrecked machine, an attendant, that they might be given hospital attention, one of those types of men that would steal even from a man in trouble came along and removed a tire from a front wheel of the wrecked car and got away with it; not, however, before his number was taken by an alert observer and the matter reported to Inspector Arthur W. Williams of the state police department. One charged with the crime in Putnam giving examinations for operators' licenses.

Stealing tires off wrecked machines has come to be regarded among motorists as a despicable thing, and it will be with good reason that the average automobile owner will watch the courts deal out justice to the thief who is responsible in this particular instance. Practically every time a car is wrecked in this vicinity tires are stolen from it if it is left unattended for even a few minutes. Three were stolen off the sedan of Edward Plancher of this city, which was wrecked a few days ago and left out on Killingly avenue.

Reuben Tanner was before Judge M. H. Geissler in the city court Tuesday morning to answer for several minor offenses against the law and he was charged with being charged with having been intoxicated, with breach of the peace, with carrying concealed weapons and with having discharged firearms within the city limits. Judge Geissler sentenced Tanner to serve 20 days in jail on each of the first three counts, but suspended sentence on the second and third counts. The charge as to discharging firearms within the city limits was not pressed, Judge Geissler informing Tanner that he would hold this over him as a means of keeping him in the straight and narrow path when he returns from jail 30 days hence. Tanner made a previous appearance in court in July when, on an intoxication charge, a fine and costs amounting to $40.14 was imposed on him. He agreed at the time to pay $1 per week but has never paid even a cent on the account with the court.

making her home, Mrs. Pierce was a resident of Putnam for many years.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson came here Tuesday to continue his examination of witnesses in the instant relative to the accident in which Stanislas Maciejewski of Webster lost his life at Perryville a few weeks ago. The injuries he received when his motorcycle crashed into a touring car, owned in North Greenfield, a few weeks ago, resulting in his death within a few hours at a Worcester hospital to which he was rushed. Through some misunderstanding witnesses that were to have appeared here Tuesday did not come, and after hearing one witness Coroner Bill again was obliged to adjourn his inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the accident.

Secretary J. R. Corbett of the Y. M. C. A. county organization announced Tuesday the arrangement of Father and Son banquets. The first of these is to be held in the Community house at East Woodstock on Wednesday evening of next week, Nov. 9, and is expected to bring together fathers and sons from all parts of the town of Woodstock. A game dinner is to be served, and this is being anticipated with interest. A splendid program is being prepared for this gathering.

Friday evening of next week, Nov. 11, a Father and Son banquet is to be held in this city at the Baptist church. Rev. John Stoddard is to be toastmaster. Attorney Ernest C. Morse will respond to the toast. Our Sons and Lovers Amos to the toast. Our Fathers. Secretary Corbett will speak on the subject. Comrades and Sidney Hayward will give a report on the recent older boys' conference held last Saturday and Sunday at New Haven.

The Winham conference numbered 27 persons, all of whom were delighted with the trip, the conferences and the entertainment. One hundred and thirty delegates were admitted through courtesy of the Yale football management to the Yale-Frown game.

Fred B. Smith of New Haven is to speak at the Father and Son banquet in this city, his subject to be Is the War Over? The principal address at the banquet will be given by J. B. Thwing of New Haven and will be upon the subject Who Shall Be Father to My Son?

Captain J. H. Bulger and Sergeant George Laird were at Williamette Tuesday to attend the session of the superior court.

The assessors were busy Tuesday receiving the last of the lists of taxable property that may be filed this year. Following and by Secretary J. H. Corbett of the County Y. M. C. A. to students at Woodstock academy, what is known as a H-Y club is to be formed there. Ten students have signed as charter members and in turn will act as a recruiting committee to obtain other memberships.

Hundreds of parishioners attended the All Saints' day services at St. Mary's church Tuesday morning. At Mechanicville, William Chandler was arrested by Constable John Kennedy to face a charge of having stolen a bicycle from a Chapman family in Pomfret. Chandler was turned over to Pomfret officials.

"Take" Alber's farewell week at the Victory theatre. Every picture a special attraction. Charles L. Torrey was in Williamette Tuesday last for the purpose of seeing a case being tried in the superior court.

Putnam's evening school is now running very smoothly and with pupils showing much interest in their work. The home that Rev. Foynton Merrill is to occupy in Brooklyn is now ready for his occupancy. Rev. Mr. Merrill will preach here for the last time as pastor Sunday next.

Final checking up of the receipts from the carnival just held by Anselm Mayotte post of the American Legion will show a profit of several hundred dollars for the organization. It was stated here on Tuesday.

The increasing number of motor trucks engaged in long distance hauling through this city is taken as indicating an improvement in business conditions. Football fans who do not happen to be graduates of either university are pulling wires here to obtain tickets for the Yale-Harvard football game. Ice is being brought into Putnam from surrounding territory to meet the demand existing here where the supply is short. Clark E. M. Warner was at Williamette Tuesday to attend a session of the superior court.

The state highway department will soon out in place the snow fences first used last winter at exposed points along the state highways in this section. Isaac Champeau was in Boston Tuesday on a business trip.

The state teachers' convention held in Hartford Friday was attended by most of the teachers in town, the schools of those who attended being closed for the day.

Frank Woodward of Hartford was in town with his hunting dog for a few days' sport last week, staying with his son Madison at the lake.

Mrs. Ralph H. Hall of East Hampton was in town last week, the guest of her sister, Miss Nellie Hunt.

Miss Eleanor Collins was at home from Smith college over the week end. She has recently been elected a member of the debating club of the college, and may have the opportunity of taking part in the intercollegiate debates later.

Fred C. Maw of Boston, a student at the Connecticut Agricultural college, was charged with reckless driving Sunday evening, Oct. 31, when a Rouser touring car which he was driving, the property of Mrs. M. W. Webber of Hartford, collided on a curve on the state road near Flinders bridge with an Essex touring car driven by George Bashor of Norwich, in which were several members of the Carboni family, some of whom were injured. His continued case came to trial Saturday morning before Justice H. P. Collins. The case was prosecuted by Grand Juror Dr. A. Lyman and defendant was represented by Attorney William A. King of Williamette. The case was held on payment of costs, $45.22, which were paid by Mrs. Webber.

At a similarly attended town meeting Saturday afternoon a clause in the warrant regarding the purchase of a set of scales to be located on the Green was considered. Proponents of scales with a weighing capacity from five to ten tons, coming from $125 to $250, making the total cost for installing them from $400 to $450, were presented. It was also stated that once in ten years it would be necessary to overhaul them, at a cost probably of $50. On being put to a vote, the motion to purchase scales was unanimously defeated.

A clause in the warrant regarding installing a furnace in the town hall was considered. A resolution to install a furnace providing contributions amounting to 75 per cent of the cost were received, was debated and finally withdrawn. The president of the dramatic club, Philip Isham, stated that the club desired permission to place a furnace in the town hall and pay all expenses, with the understanding that it meet with the approval of the selectmen. The meeting was adjourned for two weeks to enable the selectmen and dramatic club to consider the subject and report.

An entertainment under the auspices of the Christian Endeavour society was held Saturday evening in Yeomans hall. Mrs. F. A. Abell was the solo pianist, playing Rondo Humoresque at the opening and a Lullaby at the closing of the entertainment, which were very difficult and exceedingly well executed. Miss Beebe of Hartford recited several selections and Miss Palmer of Wethersfield sang several songs accompanied by Mrs. Clayton E. Hunt. All the selections on the program were remarkably well rendered.

Rev. T. Newton Owen preached a very practical sermon Sunday morning from II Tim. 4: 7. "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith."

Mrs. Clayton E. Hunt entertained over the week end her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Goff of Providence, also her sisters.
